consumers throughout the Northeastern Pennsylvania region and beyond. Serving Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey, HRC Manufacturing prides itself on providing a quality product for customers every time, with no job too big or too small.

HRC Manufacturing evolved from the Human Resources Center, Inc., a non-profit social services organization, with more than 40 years of experience in assembling, packaging, kitting, machine work and much more. The business has grown by offering a wide range of assembly services, from general and complex, to large and small jobs.

HRC also offers light machining and various types of sealing, including shrink wrapping and blister packaging. It packs, ships and labels packages and provides complete product fulfillment services, as well as secure document shredding.

The process is simple. When an agreement is reached through competitive and no-cost bidding, HRC will then pick up the product and perform the work in their facility, a 100 percent quality-controlled environment under professional supervision. Upon completion, the product is shipped and returned as instructed.

"We have worked with numerous businesses who are looking for a company like ours to assist them. Some companies have outsourced a portion of their business for us to handle on an ongoing basis, others we work with on an as needed basis. Mutually beneficial relationships have developed and continue to grow," said McCormick

HRC Manufacturing recently participated in NEPIRC's 2017 Regional Manufacturing Day Showcase and Trade Show with a company display table.

"We don't often get the opportunity to meet with so many potential clients in one place at one time," said McCormick. "NEPIRC's event provided excellent networking and we now have a list of great contacts to follow up with."
